The express crew feels better this morning, since the three accidents of the antichained series have all happened and up one is seriously hurt.

Express Messenger Drops in Meat Box on Foot, His Train Throw a Tire, and He Gets Upset on Way Home.

The fatal twenty-third was observed yesterday in more realistic style than usual. H. J. Osburn, an express messenger, participated in all three of the proverbial trio of accidents called forth by the day's alleged unluckiness.

Osburn began by dropping a meat box on his leg at Clovis yesterday morning, scraping the skin off his shin and mashing his foot. The train was held 20 minutes while his wound was dressed. As he was not seriously hurt he remained on the train to come to his home here.

At Scholle the engine threw a tire and was delayed many hours, not reaching here until nearly 3 o'clock this morning.

Arriving here, other Wells-Fargo employees took Osburn in charge.
There being no cabs or hacks in sight, C. L. Applegate, night agent, telephoned Agent McNeill for permission to take his horse and buggy and take Osburn to his home in the Fourth ward. Mr. McNeill consented.
Applegate hitched up the horse and started. All went well until the buggy and horse bounded into an unchartered reef on North Twelfth street in the shape of a pile of sand without a light on it. The buggy capized and Applegate and Osburn were thrown into the breakers. Ap-legate sustained a sprained ankle.
Osburn was shaken up once more. By a supreme effort the horse was halted and the two crippled suitcases each other to climb aboard the buggy, after which the voyage to Osburn's home was completed in safety.

Shoes of Quality

People who know like our shoes. You will like them too if you see them.

The new styles are handsome, not ordinary shoes. Not the sort of shoes you see displayed in nine stores out of ten. For instance, you can buy here shoes at $3.50, $4.00 or $4.50; or you can buy shoes at $2.00, $2.50 or $3.00 that are unusual values.

Same old prices you will say. You are right too; you have seen them quoted often--but not the same sort of shoes by any manner or means.

Come in and let us prove it.

Men's Fall and Winter Shoes.....$2.50 to $5.50

Womens' Fall and Winter Shoes.....$1.50 to $5.00

Children's Fall and Winter Shoes.....$1.00 to $3.00

Babies' Fall and Winter Shoes.....50c to $1.50
